‘STFU!’: Mike Gravel Sets Up “Gravel Institute” to Beat PragerU At Their Own Game and It’s Off to a Classy Start

Former senator from Alaska had some funds left over from his 2020 presidential run, and has decided to use them in a much-needed way. He says that PragerU is some dangerous right-wing spew funded by billionaires with their short-animated videos on YouTube and they need to be challenged. To this end, he was decided to set up a YouTube channel that will act as way for the Gravel Institute to produce similarly made videos to debunk right-wing lies. This is huge and I hope they get traction and put out more videos regularly. Lefty YouTube for the most part sucks and having short clips you can send to your “racist conservative” uncle about why government is NOT the problem would be very helpful.
